STREET WATERING BY LAW, 1892.

A By-Law to provide for watering certain portions of Columbia and Front Streets, in the City of New Westminster, and to levy and collect a Special Rate for such Service.

WHEREAS two-thirds of the citizens resident on Columbia Street, between Fourth and McNeely Streets, and on Front Street, between Eighth Street and the western boundary of Lytton Square, have petitioned this Council to provide for the watering of the said portions of Columbia and Front Streets;

And whereas the whole number of citizens residing on Columbia and Front Streets within the limits hereinbefore set out has been ascertained to be 140;

And whereas it has been ascertained that the service herein provided for can be performed for the sum of $140 per month;

And whereas for the payment of the said sum of $140 per month, it will be necessary to levy and collect each month by special rate the sum of $1 from each citizen residing on said portions of Columbia and Front Streets;

Therefore the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of New Westminster enacts as follows:—

1. There shall be levied and collected from every person now resident, or who shall, during the continuance of the service herein provided for, become resident, on Columbia or Front Streets, within the limits hereinbefore set out, the sum of $1 in each and every month, in addition to all other rates, for the purpose of defraying the cost of said service, the said sum to become due and payable by every such person on the last day of each month during the continuance of said service, the first payment to become due and payable on the last day of June, 1892.

2. The service herein provided for shall begin forthwith, or so soon as the Council may by resolution determine, and shall continue until the 30th day of September, 1892, or so long thereafter as may be required and determined by resolution of the Council.

LANGLEY BY-LAWS.

LANGLEY MUNICIPAL BY-LAW NO. 76,

ENTITLED

"LANGLEY HIGHWAY BY-LAW."

For the purpose of opening roadways through certain lands in the Municipality of Langley.

WHEREAS the Corporation of the Municipality of Langley is by the "Municipality Act, 1892," empowered to make this by-law; and whereas it is necessary and expedient to open a public roadway from the south-west angle of Lot No. 386, Group 2., to the eastern boundary of a road used as section road; and also one from a point on the eastern boundary of the trunk road, where the centre line of new bridge across Salmon River intersects said eastern boundary to the centre of road known as Titmus Road, New Westminster District;

Therefore the Reeve and Council of the Corporation of the Township of Langley enacts as follows:—

NOTICE.

The above is a true copy of a by-law passed by the Municipal Council of the Corporation of Langley on the 4th day of June, A.D., 1892, and all persons are hereby required to take notice that anyone desirous of applying to have such by-law or any part thereof quashed, must make his application for that purpose to the Supreme Court within one month next after the publication of this by-law in the British Columbia Gazette, or he will be too late to be heard in that behalf.

VANCOUVER CITY BY-LAWS.

BY-LAW No. 143.

A By-law to regulate the wires and equipments to be used for the electric lighting of all buildings or premises within the city limits.

WHEREAS it is deemed expedient for the better protection of the citizens and property against fire that a by-law should be passed regulating the erection, maintenance, and use of all wires and equipment that may be used within the City of Vancouver for the purpose of conducting electricity for lighting houses or premises within the limits of the city:

Be it therefore enacted by the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Vancouver in open Council assembled as follows:—

1. That the Council may by resolution from time to time appoint an inspector of wires and buildings at such salary as may be thought fit, whose duties it shall be to see that the regulations contained in this by-law are enforced and carried out.

2. That all wires and equipments that may be erected and maintained in connection with the electric lighting of any buildings and premises within the limits of the City of Vancouver shall be constructed, arranged, and maintained in accordance with the following regulations, that is to say:—

(1.) That the conducting wires shall be of copper, and shall have a weight per running foot at least equal to that of the wire (or parallel group of wires) constituting the main circuit of the magnetic regulator of the electric lamps (arc lamps), or of the armature of the machine employed, whichever of these is greatest;

(2.) All joints on wires shall be so made as to secure perfect and durable contacts, which shall always maintain a degree of conductivity at the joint at least equal to that of the wire generally;

(3.) The joint shall be so made as in the ordinary "telegraph splice," that it is mechanically secure against motion and displacement, and shall then be further electrically connected by solder so applied as to leave no corrosive or otherwise injurious substance on the connection. After joining and soldering the joint shall be covered with insulating material in such a way as to make the insulation of the joint as good as that of the rest of the line;

(4.) A joint made by the process of electric welding would be the equivalent of one made as indicated above, but no joint depending upon solder for its mechanical integrity, either wholly or in part, will be allowed;

(5.) Outside wires shall be covered with at least two coatings, one of insulating material, impervious to water, next to the wire, and the other of some substance fitted to resist abrasion or like mechanical injury, and shall be firmly secured to substantial approved insulators adequately supported. All "tye wires," or those used to secure the conductors to the "insulators," shall be themselves covered with waterproof insulating and mechanically resistant material similar to that used on the conductors themselves;

(6.) Overhead conducting wires shall be supported on poles as far as possible, so that they can be easily reached for inspection, and when this cannot be done, and special permit is granted allowing them to be carried over or attached to buildings, they shall be supported at least seven feet above the generally level of the roof, and at least one foot above the ridge of "pitch roofs."

(7.) Where wires approach buildings to enter them they must be so located as not to be readily reached by the occupants of such buildings, and, in the case of arc light systems, must maintain a minimum distance of ten inches apart, and for incandescent systems of six inches apart, except where the wires are carried in conduits;

(8.) When these exterior electric light wires are near other conductors of any kind capable of carrying off a part of the current if contact should be made, dead insulated guard irons shall be placed so as to prevent any such contact in case of accidents affecting the wires or their supports;

(9.) Like precautions shall be taken where acute angles occur in the line wires;

(10.) Overhead wires from the main circuit or pole lines in the street to the insulators attached to the buildings which they enter shall not be less than ten inches apart from arc wires, or six inches from incandescent wires carrying currents of 250 E.M.F. as a maximum. They shall be securely and rigidly supported as insulators of glass, porcelain, or other approved material;

(11.) Wherever electric light wires enter buildings through their exterior walls the wires shall be firmly supported and encased in tubes of non-conducting material not liable to absorb moisture (e. g., porcelain or glass), and so placed as to prevent the entrance of rain water along the wires (e. g., the tubes shall slope upward as they pass inward through the wall);

(12.) Both the ingoing and returning wires, where arc lights are supplied, must enter the building at the same location, and pass through an approved manual "cut-out-box" or switch, which shall be placed where it will be easy of access to firemen and the police;

(13.) In the interior of buildings wires for arc lights besides being covered with an insulating covering, such as has been already described, shall be in all cases securely attached and supported by insulators, which shall keep them out of contact with any wall, partition, ceiling, or floor so as to secure an air space of at least one-quarter inch between the wire and any adjacent wall, partition, ceiling, or floor, and wherever the wire cross or come near to any other wires, pipes, or other conductors the wires shall all be rigidly secured and separated from each other or any other conductors by means of some rigid non-conducting material;

(14.) Arc wires of opposite polarities (i.e., the incoming and outgoing wires from each lamp, or of each circuit), shall be kept at a distance of not less than eight inches from each other, except within the structure of lamps or on switch boards, cut-out boxes of the like where a nearer approach is necessary;

(15.) In exceptional cases, however, where the wires are so rigidly secured and insulated that contact or connection between them is quite impossible, they may be allowed to approach much nearer (e. g., if each wire or conductor is covered with a thick and indisplaceable insulation, which, in turn, is covered by a leaden sheath or pipe, and then two or more such pipes are inclosed in an iron pipe in such a manner that injury to the lead covered cables is impossible, this would be an allowable substitute for the eight inches of absolute separation called for in the general rule);

(16.) Wherever wires are carried through walls, partitions, or floors within a building they shall be surrounded by a special rigid insulating tube or casing impervious to water, and shall be so attached and supported as to be secure from abrasion or other mechanical injury. (Note.—Soft rubber tubing will not meet the above requirements as an insulation.)

(17.) The exterior frames and other exposed parts of arc lamps shall be securely insulated from the electric circuit, and all such lamps shall have glass globes surrounding the light, and inclosed below so as to prevent the fall of ignited particles. Where inflammable materials are placed below such lamps the globe shall be surrounded by a wire netting capable of keeping the parts of the globe in place if it is fractured in use.

(18.) In show windows and other places where inflammable materials are displayed, and in factories or wood working establishments where "flyings" may be present in the air, each lamp shall be provided with "spark-arresters";

(19.) Each lamp shall be provided with a hand switch, and also with an automatic switch, which shall shunt the current round the carbons before the arc between them reaches a dangerous length;

(20.) In the distribution of the conductors through buildings, "concealed work," such as the placing of wires under floors or within partitions, walls, or ceilings, shall be avoided as much as possible;

(21.) In perfectly and securely dry localities an approved insulated wire without waterproof covering may be used, provided the wires are not concealed, and are supported by cleats or insulators;

(22.) Wherever the wires are to be in any way covered up they must be coated with an approved waterproof insulation, or otherwise protected in such manner as may be from time to time approved by the Inspector;

(23.) In all cases of concealed work, the person, persons, or body corporate proposing to introduce the same shall furnish the Inspector with a detailed diagram of the work, showing the kind and size of wire used at the different branches, with particulars as to the insulation and in what material imbedded, location of cut-outs, switches, &c., the diagram to be signed and sworn to by the person or officers of the company and filed with the Inspector for reference;

(24.) If wires are embedded in the plaster of walls, ceilings, or partitions, they shall be separated not less than ten inches from each other, in addition to being insulated as above described, unless they are enclosed in approved conduits;

(25.) In buildings in course of construction, terminal wires shall be so arranged as to be secure from injury by the plasterers;

(26.) Wires insulated as above may be covered by or imbedded in mouldings in dry locations, but in breweries, paper mills, dye houses, and other like places where they are exposed to moisture they shall be carried out of contact with the walls, ceilings, and the like on approved insulators, or in such waterproof and insulating conduits as may be approved by the Committee.

(27.) Conduits to be approved shall be continuous from one junction box to another, or to fixtures, and be of material that will resist the fusing of wire or wires they contain without destroying or igniting the conduit, and if not entirely embedded in plaster or other non-inflammable material, or not inflammable themselves, must have an outer covering which is non-inflammable, and be so placed that they will be protected from injury and breakage, and all wires intended to carry more than five ampere currents shall be placed in separate conduits, unless a special permit is issued for same, on branches imbedded for wires of five ampere currents and less; the positive and negative wires, if properly insulated, may be placed in the same conduit, provided a double pole safety fuse is inserted at each branch connection;

(28.) In these systems, where alternating currents of high electromotive force are used on the main line, and secondary currents of low electromotive force are developed in local "converters" or "transformers," the entire primary circuit and the transformers shall, where possible, be excluded from any building, and be confined to the aerial line (the transformers being attached to the poles or the exterior of the buildings), or to underground conduits if such are used, or placed in fire-proof vaults or exterior buildings;

(29.) In those cases, however, where it may not be possible to exclude the transformers and entire primary from the building, the following precautions shall be strictly observed:—

(30.) The transformer shall be constructed with or enclosed in a fireproof or incombustible case, and located at a point as near as possible as that at which the primary wires enter the building. Between these points, the conductors shall be heavily insulated with a coating of approved waterproof material, and, in addition, shall be so covered in and protected that mechanical injury to them or contact with them shall be practically impossible;

(31.) These primary conductors, if within a building, shall be also furnished with a double pole switch or separate switches on the ingoing and return wires, and also with automatic double pole cut-out where they enter the building, or where they leave the main line on the pole, or in the conduit. The switches above referred to should, if possible, be enclosed in secure and fireproof boxes outside the building;

(32.) Where there is a possible exposure to water, the first or second coating shall be impervious to the fluid;

(33.) For incandescent lamp fixtures and electroliers, exceptions may be made to the foregoing rule in which the wires can be placed nearer than the prescribed distance to each other or to other conductors, provided the fixture is fully insulated at the base from house and ground piping, and further provided that a double pole safety catch is placed at the base of each fixture, or at the nearest branch connection, as may be required by the Inspector;

(34.) In all cases where combination (gas and electric) fixtures are used, extra precaution shall be taken to secure complete and continuous insulation from the gas piping;

(35.) All machine lamps, wires, and other parts of electric systems shall be so constructed, mounted, and secured so as to insure complete and continuous insulation, with such exceptions only as are hereinbefore stated, and in no case shall ground circuits be employed, or any part of the system be allowed to come in contact with the earth through gas or water pipes or the like;

(36.) Wherever a current of such high electro-motive force is employed that, if concentrated on one lamp or motor of the series, it would produce an arc capable of destroying or fusing part of such lamp, an automatic switch shall be introduced in each lamp or motor, by which it will be thrown out of circuit before the arc approaches any such dangerous extent;

(37.) Wherever a connection is made between a larger and smaller conductor at the entrance or within a building, some approved automatic device shall be introduced into the circuit of the smaller conductor at or close to its junction, by which it shall be interrupted whenever the current passing is in excess of its safe carrying capacity;

(38.) All cut-out boxes or switches which shift, transmit, or break a current shall be mounted on incombustible bases, and so arranged as to close one circuit before they open another, and operate in such a manner that no arc can be formed between the contact surfaces when thrown "on" or "off." It shall be so far positive in its action that it cannot stop between the extreme positions. It must indicate on inspection whether current is on or off. This regulation applies to isolated plants as well as to those connected with central stations;

(39.) The rules and regulations under the head of insulation, automatic cut-outs, and switches shall be observed where electric motors are used, and, in addition, the motor frames shall be properly insulated, and so mounted as to be free from grounds, and each motor shall be provided with an approved switch to prevent an excessive flow of current;

(40.) When the current for lights or power is taken from storage batteries, the same general regulations are to be observed;

(41.) "High potential circuits or wires":—This term includes all wires arranged with the view of carrying currents of more than two hundred and fifty volts difference of potential between any two parts of the system, even if such current is used to run incandescent lamps;

(42.) Low potential circuits or wires are such as do not carry currents of more than two hundred and fifty volts;

(42a.) Before any wires laid or embedded in the plaster or material composing any walls, ceilings, or partitions of buildings are covered up or concealed, notice shall be given by the owner or contractor to the Inspector requesting him to inspect the same. He shall so inspect within two days, and if he condemns them as not being laid or constructed in accordance with the provisions of this by-law, they shall be forthwith removed by the owner or contractor. Any owner or contractor failing to give the aforesaid notice before covering up and concealing the said wires, or failing, in the event of the said wires being condemned, to forthwith remove the same, shall be liable to the penalties of this by-law.

(43.) Any person, persons, or body corporate, by themselves, their agents, or servants, erecting or maintaining any wire used for the conduct of electricity within the limits of the City of Vancouver contrary to the foregoing regulations shall be guilty of an infraction of this by-law, and liable to the penalties thereof.
